Help Help us meet the mobility challenges of today and tomorrow Company Solutions Newsroom Finance Careers Germany has one of the richest railway traditions in the world, and Alstom is playing a major role in shaping its progress. Our German production sites have been setting quality standards for decades and continue to advance the full range of modern and innovative rail industry products that are €AAAde in GermanyAAA for the future. Here we develop, manufacture, and maintain vehicles and components both for the German market and for customers around the world. In Lower Saxony, Alstom is building the world's first fuel cell-powered, completely emission-free Cordia iLint regional train in series production. We serve peopleAAAAs mobility needs clear across Germany with a wide range of rail transportation solutions. In many regions, our products form the backbone of urban, regional, and intercity transport. Numerous cities successfully rely on a mix of Alstom solutions for their public transport networks. From metros, trams and light rail vehicles to locomotives and regional and commuter trains, our products are moving millions of people and tonnes of cargo every day. Related services, as well as signalling solutions, complete our comprehensive portfolio for the German market. Alstom Germany assumes responsibility for society, diversity and the environment and focuses on sustainability along the entire value chain. This corporate responsibility is a crucial part of every business decision. Innovation made in Germany: the Cordia iLint is the worldAAAAs first passenger train powered by a hydrogen fuel cell. The train emits low levels of noise, with exhaust being only steam and condensed water. In operation in Germany since 2018. Equipping a total of 333 regional and S-Bahn trains with signalling technology will bring ATO operation to German mainlines. The new signalling technology will increase capacity and frequency on the network while also making the trainAAA performance more sustainable. This order marks GermanyAAAAs first implementation of automated train operation (ATO) in regional level 2 (GoA 2) for new S-Bahn vehicles. The trains will feature the latest generation of digital signalling and automation systems for greater capacity and reliability. A world premiere: Alstom is testing highly automated regional trains in Lower Saxony as part of a research project. The legal and technical requirements for the use of highly automated trains in regional passenger operations will be tested until 2023. With LNVG and RMV, two operators have already decided to embrace environmentally friendly hydrogen technology. In addition to delivering a total of 41 vehicles, Alstom will also be responsible for their maintenance as well as the supply of hydrogen. Our customer LNVG has ordered 34 of these modern double-decker trains to advance comfortable and sustainable mobility. Alstom will also be responsible for maintenance of the vehicles for 30 years. For the first time in the world, Alstom is testing highly automated regional trains in Lower Saxony/Germany as part of a research project starting in 2021. The legal and technical requirements for the use of highly automated trains in regional passenger operations will be tested until 2023. More than 40 cities in Germany trust in AlstomAAAAs light rail solutions, more than 1,000 vehicles are in operation throughout the country.
